Owned and operated by portfolio operator, E.V. Bishoff Company, the City Club Building in downtown Cleveland, Ohio has added a third floor that now has retail space available for business-to-business retailers.

Cleveland, OH (PRWEB) September 03, 2013 -- To address the needs of retailers that can't or don't want to afford the ground level retail locations, but still want the benefit of high foot traffic, E.V. Bishoff Company has developed the Concourse Floor which has high visibility and affordable prices all located on a high traffic location on the 3rd floor of The City Club Building all of which benefits from the traffic generated from the garage passageway located on the same floor.

The City Club building, located on the revitalized Euclid Corridor at the southwest corner of E. 9th Street on Euclid Avenue, is currently home to numerous jewelers, non-profit organizations, creative thinkers, designers, start-ups and seasoned professionals. The building is known for its eclectic vibe and alternative to the typical business-life atmosphere that most buildings portray. An alternative that delivers to the office, be it large or small, the infrastructure that not only allows, but encourages productivity, expansion and collaboration. To allow more businesses to enjoy the one-of-a-kind feeling that this building resonates, portfolio operator, E.V. Bishoff Company decided to extend the opportunity by adding a retail service floor to its offering.

Business to business retailers enjoy the steady traffic count of 1,000 to 2,000 people a week who pass in front of their doors on a continuous basis. "The Concourse Floor, located on the third floor, benefits from thousands of passersby coming and going via the attached garage that services the City Club Building," said David Bishoff, president of E.V.
